Do not forget to enroll.

A vote for Bleasie means an endorsement of his record. There are some things in his record we can endorse and some things we cannot. The portion of his record which we cannot endorse eliminates him from our consideration.

A FEW PERTINENT QUESTIONS.
Is McLaurin still a Bleasie?
Is "Bull Moose" Beard supporting the governor?
Is James Carroll Sims an aristocrat?
Is John G. Richards a coat-tail swimmer, camp-follower or the "real thing"?
Does a vote for Cole L. Bleasie carry with it the endorsement of his whole-sale pardon record? If not, why not?
What right has detectives on the payroll of the state of South Carolina being paid out of funds derived from taxing the people, to be accompanying the senatorial campaign party?
What candidate made it necessary that resolutions be drawn up at Bamberg decrying the use of filthy language in the presence of ladies?
Granting that a public office should be a man most nearly approaching your ideal of citizenship and manhood and that if you elect to office one who is the friend and companion of lawbreakers, isn't it reasonable to conclude that your son, in seeking to emulate the example of your ideal, will get a very low estimate of citizenship?
Is there any reason why a self-styled "opion of the people" should be at the same time a champion of lawlessness?

It has been reported that in some sections of the county voters are violating the rules of the party as construed by the county executive committee by crossing the township lines to enroll. The executive committee is the final authority in such matters in this county and from its ruling an appeal can only be taken to the state executive committee. No officer of the party, regardless of his position, has the right to over-ride the ruling of the executive committee by authorizing enrollment in any manner other than that prescribed by the committee. Therefore, while it is possible that the executive committee of Laurens county may have placed a different construction on the rules from that placed on them in other counties, its authority is final, except for appeal, and no one is likely to lose his vote if he follows the rules as it construes them. It is reasonable to presume that the state executive committee would not throw out any vote cast in good faith under the ruling of the county executive committee. And since the county executive committee is the only authority that has spoken on the question it would be safest, certainly the best, to enroll according to its direction.

It seems to us to be the better part of wisdom for all voters, except in those districts especially provided for by the committee, to enroll in the club within the township nearest their place of residence. In other words, do not cross the township lines to enroll.

A GREAT PROBLEM.
The faction, of which Gov. Bleasie is the leader, is not alone in its anxiety over the negro question. We dare say that all the three candidates opposing him for election to the United States senate have given the question long hours of thought. The question is without a doubt a momentous one and not easy of solution, surely not by political harangues. How it is to be settled, by segregation, colonization, amalgamation or what not would indeed be venturesome to predict. The very thought of amalgamation, of course, is abhorrent and will doubtless ever be tenaciously contended against.

The time for colonization is probably past and as the years go by, become more and more unlikely of accomplishment. Segregation by law is now being given serious consideration and has already been put into partial practice in one of the cities of the South. The constitutionality of it is soon to be decided in the supreme court in a case coming up from Louisville, Ky. Even though legal segregation is not accomplished, the wisdom of which in rural communities we doubt, it is fast coming about through the force of racial differences. The whites are moving away from the blacks, where the latter are purchasing land in large numbers and the blacks are fast taking possession of some localities.

The question is one of great proportions. But legislating a few dozen white teachers out of negro schools does not touch the larger phases of the problem. Such agitation affects the minor phases and makes the larger question harder of solution.

In selecting leaders to solve this great problem the people should not look to one who uses it as a pretext for political promotion, but should seek out broad-minded, unselfish and patriotic men who would go about the question with the desire to do their countrymen, both white and black, a measure of service. It is impossible to hope that much can be done during the administration of one man, but sound treatment of the problem through a series of years and study of the problem by leaders all over the south should bring about a solution.

So long! Gone to Chicks Spring to meet the "press gang," otherwise known as the "newspaper oligarchy."
